

Curriculum Vitae

Daniel Bisgaard Rasmussen
Architect, civil-engineer, Cand.Polyt.Arch

I believe that empathy is important when designing architecture. Compassion for people, animals, and plants, and creating a future, where everybody/everything can thrive in cohesion, is essential to compact today's climate crisis. I find it interesting and important to work with materials and how they affect the planet and the people using them. But also observing and talking with the users of the architecture created.

One of the greatest ways for me to design is through constructive discussion, both with colleagues, but also with craftspeople and engineers, and with the users, I'm designing for.

Min Miggs-Bryers
Personlighed er:
ENFP

I'm a very extroverted person and I get my energy from being with other people, therefore I thrive on being in a community and value teamwork.
